

Steeling Skies

The Steeling Skies art project involved working closely with residents from the Shiregreen community using creative activities to highlight issues raised, discuss future ideas and capture any ideas to be incorporated in the design of the improvements to the streets.

Steeling Skies has succeeded in raising the profile of Shiregreen with an ethos and approach of 'looking upwards and looking again at your environment to vision new spaces and look forward.' The project has spanned over three years and included creating temporary artwork and interventions within the Shiregreen estate, developing a high profile art trail for the adjacent Concord Park and leaving permanent design features as a legacy.

The Lamppost Sky Map Trail was developed to fit the wishes of local residents to keep original characters and features of the estate. The artworks compliment the new positive changes around the estate and fulfil an idea of bringing signage to help visitors navigate around the large estate and have a visual representation of local groups and services nearby. The Lamppost Sky Map Trail included reusing 78 of the original 1930's lampposts and painting these with images gathered from the community to represent many groups, individuals and businesses within the estate.

Shiregreen Streetscene improvements have recently been shortlisted for The Sustainable Housing Awards 2011 in the Transformation category. Steeling Skies was developed and delivered by lead artists rednile Projects.
